Cancer Partners of Nebraska Expands Access to Cancer Care with New Outreach Clinic in Norfolk

NORFOLK, Neb. – Cancer Partners of Nebraska is pleased to announce a new outreach clinic at Fountain Point Medical Community in Norfolk, bringing expert oncology care closer to patients and families across northeast Nebraska.

At the new clinic, three board-certified medical oncologists from Cancer Partners of Nebraska will provide comprehensive cancer care, including treatment planning and ongoing support, closer to home for many patients.

"We are committed to making high-quality cancer care accessible to patients where they live," said Dr. Brett Grieb. “By expanding our services to Norfolk, we can help reduce travel burdens for patients while ensuring they receive the expert, personalized care Cancer Partners of Nebraska is known for."

Patients seen at the Norfolk outreach clinic will have access to the expertise and resources of Cancer Partners of Nebraska's multidisciplinary team, with seamless care coordination across the organization's network of providers and locations.

Cancer Partners of Nebraska's medical oncologists seeing patients in Norfolk include:

- Dr. Scott McHam
- Dr. Irfan Vaziri
- Dr. Brett Grieb

The expansion reflects Cancer Partners of Nebraska's ongoing mission to provide exceptional, patient-centered cancer care and improve access to specialized oncology services throughout the region.
